not now be competed to go out of ucors and then wade through dust and dirt in order to attend the hearings which must now be held in the green room, the blue room or some other out of the way place, because of the lack of accommodations in the new part. Quincy lawyers are jubilant and Heary Faxon is correspondingly depressed. The committee on county estimates has reported in favor of a new court house in Quincy to be outlit by Norfolk county at the expense of $70,000. Heary will lose the fat rents which he has been collecting for the use of his old building, but Henry will take the matter philosophically as usual. Capt. Gilbert of Plymonth has been showing the committee on fisheries this wock samples of tame trout in the egg and some just batched. How to Make Oyster Croquettes.

For oyster croquettes put 2 dozen large oysters on to boil in their own liquor for five minutes. Take from the fire, drain and chop: Put a small teacupful of cream in a saucepan with the same quantity of oyster liquor. Rub an ounce of butter and 2 tablespoonfuls of flour together, add with the oysters to the boiling cream and stir until thick. Beat in the yolk of 2 eggs; stir for a minute; take from the fire. Season with a tablespoonful of mineed parsley, a little grated nutmeg, salt and cayenne. Mix well and spread on a dish to cool. When firm, form into croquettes. Roll first in beaten egg, then in grated bread crumbs and fry in boiling fat.

How to Stain a Floor.

It will be found very difficult to stain the center of a floor to match the border. The quickest means will be to stain it with burnt umber mixed with vandyke brown ground up in water, in which a piece of soda has been dissolved. This will take if the boards are clean, dries soon and can be repeated if not dark enough. It can be waxed and polished for dancing by being brushed with a stiff brush to imitate a frottoir. Spirit varnishes will not stand the wear and tear. Permanganate of potash is another stain that might answer the same purpose.

The liquor cases of Lowell and Baldwin were brought up in the court at Quincy on Monday, and Lowell was found guilty of violation of law and fined $75, and given three months imprisonment at Dedham. Baldwin was discharged for want of sufficient evidence to convict.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York, comes from carelessness about eathing cold." says Dr. Cyrus Edson. It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. East Weymouth Briefs.

Where are the patriotic sons of patriotic sires? A year ago the yard of the Franklin school was adorned with one of the finest flag staffs in the state, but in one of the gales of last fall the mast head was carried away at the cross-trees and (down rame the mast-head and beautiful topmast. Since that time about seventy feet of the staff has stood as a monument to the gale, the top broken and jagged, drinking in the rain, snow and lice and rotting away. It is high time that some patriotic boy started a popular subscription and raised funds to put the staff in good condition and "Old Glory" once more floated to the breeze.

—E. D. Flynn of Lynn gave a stirring temperance address in Temperance hall, last Sunday night.

—The postponed ladies' night of the Columbian Club, held in Masonic building, Monday night, was highly enjoyed by the large number of people present. The exercises of the evening were in charge of the president, C. B. Cushing, and consisted of a short address on Washington, by Waldo Turner; anecdotes of Mt. Vernon, by C. D. Canterbury: Abraham Lincoln, by John Hoag; Frederick Douglass, by Daniel Evans; St. Valentine's Day, by G. A. Grover; interesting remarks by G. M. Hoyt, one of the guests of the evening. After partaking of refreshments of ice cream and cake, the company again repaired to the andience room, where an II. Emerson favoring the company with a fine solo.

—With all of the other attractions in the village Tuesday night it might have been expected that the attendance at the eighteenth anniversary of Pilgrim Lodge, K. of II. would have been light, yet a large number of people were on hand to enjoy the programme, indulge in the refreshments and join in the dance. Owing to sickness of several of the artists engaged, a part of the programme was cut out. The piano solos by Miss Myrtle C. Peterson were highly enjoyed. She is one of the youngest performers before the people, but her first number, "Hy Moonlight," Bendel, captured the house, and "Hon Tom" was given as an encore; later she gave "Midsummer Nights Dream," which also called for hearty applause. The strongest, and one of the most popular attractions now playing in Boston is to be seen in the cozy little Bijou Opera house, next door to Keith's new theatre, where George A. Wilson, the old Boston Museum favorite and a company of exceptionally fine players are seen every night in the great London, New York and Boston Comedy success, "Our Uncle Dudley." Mr. Wilson, in his twenty years' experience before the Boston public, has never appeared to such advantage as at the present time. For pure and wholesome fun, something at which you can laugh with a feeling that you have had sufficient provocation thereto; something at which you can carry away pleasant memories for a quiet laugh all by your lonesome, you should see "Our Uncle Dudley."

Medical practitioners of prominence are prescribing for the cure of diseases spring-ing from derangement of the digestive organs, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. This professional endorsement is justified by the fact that no other prepis justified by the fact that no other preparation has been found so effications in that class of disorders even in the most advanced and severe cases. It has cured gravel in the kidneys, stone in the bladder and inflamation of the kidneys, where all other medicines had failed. It can be purchased of any druggist. A book is wrapped about each bottle, explaining its use.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "And have since been free from all pain." He now recommends it to persons similarly afflicted.

Now is the Time.

The benefit to be derived from a good medicine-in early spring is undoubted, but many people neglect taking any until the approach of warmer weather, when they wilt like at tender itover in a hot sun. Something must be done to purify the blood, overcome that tired feeling and give necessary strength. Vacation is carnestly longed for, but many weeks, perhaps months, must elapse before rest can be indulged in. To impart strength, and to give a feeling of health and vigor throughout the system. there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It seems perfectly adapted to overcome that prostration caused by change of season, climate or life, and while it tones and sustains the system it purifies and renovates the blood. his friends.

"A moment later, just as Stoner was going back into the house, there was the slow thud of a horse's hoofs, and Tom Warren, the young sheriff, rode down the trail, around the corner of the old adobe building into the main county road that lay to the west. He had all sat yielded to Tessa's entreaties to "go, go, this minute, Tom."

Impassible as Stoner was, he felt a little startled by the sight.

"Where in the devil did you come from, sheriff? Anything up in this part of the country?"

"Oh, no, not a particle. I've been visiting my old school in the mountains and took the short trail he new down and took the

How to Drill a Square Hole.

Make the drill of a three sided steel bar, which side is like the side of the square hole you want, and prepare it in the end for cutting good and freely. Over the spot where the hole is wanted place a fixture with a square hole of the same size as required. The drill can be fixed for a boring machine and is guided in the hole of the fixture. The finished holes look good with slightly rounded corners.

Called to Higher Life.

It is our painful duty to record this morning the death of one of Riverside's must estemed young women. Eliza, wife of Mr. John B. Huberty, and daughter of Mr. John B. Huberty, and daughter of Mr. John B. Huberty, and their welding was elaborately celebrated here in St. Francis de Sales church.

Beloved for her many virtues and always having a kind word for all, she endeared herself to all who knew her. During her long lilhnes she bore the sufferings with patience and fortitude. Relatives and riends did all in their power to allay her sufferings, but she could not rally under her terrible disease—consumption.

By her death the sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement, her father, husband, sister and brothers especially. The latter live in Massachusetts and were telegraphed the sad news yesterday.

The St. Francis de Sales church will sustain, through her death, a severe loss, as she was a most devout worker there both in religions and social duties.

Many thousands of these lilles are cultivated in the open air. They may be set out just as they arrive from Germany at almost any time of year, and they resist forst with perfect hardiness, the outdoor lilles bloom in the spring from months. The development of the plant is thus arrested, and some early leave the filling of the recent statement in print of the liquor law and suppression of trankenness. The speaker were level, Fr. Begley, Rev. J. H. McDonald, Rev. Daniel Evans and H. forth and eithers forced indoors or permitted to develop normally in the open air. In this way the season is further extended.

Florists find that the lily of the valley is most difficult to manage for autumn flowering. The period of development is then at least 20 days, and the flowers are, upon the whole, less satisfactory than in winter and spring.

Beautiful as the flower is, it is not expensive. The pips may be bought at retail in November at from 30 to 40 cents per dozen, or about $1.50 per 100. The price to the importers is far below this, and the rate to florists is such that there is a handsome profit in the plants when the cut flowers retail as low as 5 cents per spray. As each pip produces only one set of blossoms and the percentage of loss is reasonably uniform, florists know pretty well what to count on ir forcing the lily of the valley.

A Spiendid Chance.

Everybody who is weak, delicate or sickly wants to get well. Dr. Greene of 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., makes a specialty of treating patients through letter correspondence. The wisest thing all suffering people can do is to write the Doctor, stating just how they feel, mentioning every symptom of which they complain, and he will answer the letter, explaining each symptom and describing the case so thoroughly that patients understand their complaint as well as though they had talked with the Doctor. He makes his er planations so clear that they cannot help but understand just what alls them, and he tells exactly what to do get a save a journey to the grant of the saves a journey to hing. Dr. Greene is the foot of the control diseases. He is the discoverer of that wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervurniblood and nerve remedy. Thousands are being cured through his perfect system of letter correspondence. It has been proved successful. and they will not be living generation.

It is really one of the most wonderful achievements of human ingenuity. It doesn't take a large can of oil to lubricate it either, it just requires 1-10 off a drop to oil the entire watch for a year's service. But it has mighty great need of that 1-10 of a drop. South Weymouth Items, —It was at the witching hour of about halt-past one last Mouday morning that Officer Michael Allen, in accordance with his nightly cutsom, tried the door of the depot. As his hand was on the knob he heard a slight noise within and demanded admission. His request was not complied with, but from the interior a savage voice snapped, "Git, or I'll blow your brains out!" Michael got. He proceeded to the residence of Mr. Macomber, the station agent, but that gentleman preferred a warm bed to cold lead and remarked that he had no brains he cared to lose. By the time Allen had roused Dan Sullivan and the two had reached the station the burglars or trainps, most likely the latter, bad departed. Apparently no sutempt had been made to enter the ticket office as everything was found intact. Entraince had been effected by way of a window raised with implements which the "gentlemen of the road" had abstracted from the tool house a short distance up the træck.

—At about 11 o'clock Monday evening the house in Columbian square owned by Mrs. Noah W. Torrey was feund to be on fire and an alarm was rung in from box 52. It was an hour before the flames were fully out and by that time the building was almost irreparably ruined. It was the work of incendiaries who apparently gained admission by the rear door, kindling the blaze in the hall. There is said to have been no insurance the policy having run ont but a few days ago. Mrs. Torrey, who boards with her sister, Mrs. Gardner, at Nash's Corner has been very ill for nearly two weeks. The firebug chose a fitting occasion for his dastardly work.

—Alexander Sherman, for many years a resident of this place, died at Taunton on Wednesday last. Mr. Sherman has been an invalid for some time, but was once one of the most busy of our carpenters and builders. He leaves a widow, one son and one daughter, Mrs. William A. Hail. —A Union temperance meeting was held at the First Universalist church lost Sunday evening and was largely attended.
The order of exercises was as follows:
Prayer, Rev. W. H. Alexander; scripture reading, Rev. Ira Morrison; address, Rev.
C. F. Clark; remarks. Rev. W. Hyde.
Mr. Clark's address was very interesting and was listened to with close attention by the large audience present. This meeting was decidedly different from the one held at East Weymouth, when the clergymen, according to the newspaper reports, attacked the town officials, claiming they had not done their duty, which seems very ridiculous to most of the citizens of the town, that the clergymen should remain slient fifty weeks in the year and for the two weeks before town meeting attempt to revolutionize town matters.

20 COMMERCIAL STREET,

A DIPPER FOR LIQUID MANURE.

and most expeditions manner was found to be by means of a long handled dipper holding about eight quarts. The box or tank for handing was made of inch matched pine, with a partition in the center and a 6 inch board on the top to prevent slopping when in motion. This manure was mostly used for hops and was dipped from the box directly on the hills. At the hind end of the box a gate was made to draw the last from the bot tom of the loads, and a corresponding one in the partition. When manuring the meadow lands, the gate was raised and the team started, as in those days no liquid manure sprinkler had been dreamed of. Twelve loads per day were hauled for three months at a time, with the arrangement described.

A Long Island farmer, who, having built a tank for liquid manure and experiencing difficulty in getting the liquid out, finally solved the problem, wrote:

"On a board 2 feet square I nailed window screen nesting the depth of my tank. I sank this and kept it in position by putting a heavy stone on the bottom. On the lid of the tank I placed a common chain pump—cost, $4. By this method I get out the liquid clear without the slightest clogging. I find the effects of liquid manure on vegetation are simply marvelous."

A correspondent from Ohio, who claimed that absorbents beat pumps, said:

"To save liquid manure construct the stable floor of cement on an incline of about 1 foot in 100. At the lower end put in a catch basin, say, 3 feet square and 3 feet deep of cement to catch all liquid not absorbed by litter. From this catch basin lay a tile to a shed with a cement bottom and walled-sides, say, which can be taken up. As the sediment accumulates in the bottom of the basin it can be easily taken out with a hoe, and none of it will pass through the titles or elog them. Fill in the shed with absorbents such as muck, horse manure or any dry substance, and the pump and sprinkler question is easily solved. One need not worry about tanks, pumps, sprinklers, etc., to dispose of the liquid manure. I have a shed large enough to hold the manure from 20 cattle, 6 horses and 10 hogs. It is all mixed together, and in the spring there is no liquid to pump out. It is all absorbed in the manure."

It is an easy method to duplicate the formula of stable manures by means of themicals and an almost impossible thing to prepare a compound of equal chemicals and an amoust impositions thing to prepare a compound of equal all around availability. The whole problem is in this, writes a correspondent of The Farm Journal—how to use chemicals that their fertilizing elements may be available when wanted for plant be available when wanted for plant growth.

Nitrogen (fertilizer dealers express it in the form of ammonia in order to en-large their figures a trifle) in the form of dried blood or nitrate of soda or good fish scraps is all that may be desired as to availability. Properly made acid phosphate (very little made in this coun-try) and dissolved boneblack are two forms of readily available phosphoric try) and dissolved boneblack are two forms of readily available phosphoric acid. In the soil, however, they soon tend to revert or become quite insoluble. Nitrogen and phosphoric acid in these forms are best put on the land when the seeds are planted. Potash is more slowly available. It may with safety be fall plowed in or turned under very early in the spring. There is little danger of loss in damage.

Ready mixed or complete fertilizers, are almost always deficient in potash, but this may be easily remedied by supplementing them with kainit, muriate of potash or wood ashes.

The disadvantage of these "complete" manures is the fact that all the elements of fertility must go on the land at one time, which is never advisable for spring sowings.

FARMING EAST AND WEST.

FARMING EAST AND WEST.

Extensive Agriculture Versus Intensive Farming—Agriculture of Tillage.

In an address delivered by Professor J. W. Sanlorn before the Massachusetts state board of agriculture he said: The west is peopled by the stirring, ambitions sons and daughters of New England and the better sections of Europe and is one of the finest fruits of the wondrous development of the applied sciences during the present generation. Were it not for steam and steel New England hills would have been one of the most densely populated and productive areas of the rural world. The extensive agriculture of the west rests upon free fortility, machinery and boldness of operation; hence New England agriculture is flattened by intensive farming and is grounded in manual labor and timidity. The former is an agriculture of tillage, the latter of grass.

In Illinois 81 per cent of the area is annually plowed. Grain, corn and potatose occupy quite 5,000,000 acres and hay 8,500,000 acres. In Massachusetts 83,000 acres are in grass, or 12 per cent is in tillage and 88 in grass. In the west manual labor is at a minimum, machinery at its maximum use. Its rich limestone soils are groundfiner than our own granitic soils and are more richly infiltered with organic fatness. Machinery and cheap transportation have extracted fertility, enabling the west to show evidences of civilization. This soil robbery is about completed in the enrichment of a single gen tation have extracted fertility, enabling the west to show evidences of civiliza-tion. This soil robbery is about com-pleted in the curichment of a single gen-eration. Cropping without fertilizing has reduced the average yield of wheat in Kansas from 17 to 13 bushels in 16 years. As to grain feeding for meat, a 1,500 pound steer costs upward of $80 to raise. Such a price is but common in-laying the foundation of renewed fertility.

Compared with the west, New England has poorer soils, higher railway rates, cannot sell products in largo masses, uses less machinery, has poorer pastures, fewer skilled breeders, less boldness of policy and is more fixed in its practices. New England has nearby markets, can produce better products, has cheaper money, cheaper lands, better roads, more permanent improvements. The west absorbs our most ambitious sons, new industries and modern science demand others, while both, at inviting rates of interest, took the surplus capital laid by by New England farmers. New England today offers the best opportunity of the continent for a poor man to procure a farm home.

on rocky ground The Farm Journal suggests the contrivance here shown to break down or to lift obstructions out of their beds. It consists of three strong poles bound together at the top, a hooked chain fastened to their top to suspend a heavy iron bar to be used as a battering ram or as a lever.

Operating incubators.

Each hatching ought to be placed in the machine at one time and no eggs added thereafter, according to a writer in American Agriculturist, who gives these general rules: Practice with the machine until you can run it steadily day and night without any change of temperature of the egg chamber. You should be able to do this in a week. Then pat in the eggs. This will lower the temperature of the eggs chamber very much unless the the eggs are if first warmed. I prefer warming nicely before putting in. Very early in the morning is the best time for starting, for the thermometer can be looked at at least once each hour until 10 o'clock the following night. If it remains steady, everything is right. At the end of ten days you may text out the infertile eggs and put in one pan of lukewarm water for moisture. At the end of two weeks the heat of the hatching eggs will be such that you must watch closely lest the temperature rise too high. Be sure that it never goes above 103 degrees. If there must be a variation, 93 degrees is far better than 105.

If the air in the room is constantly warm and dry, place a second pan of lukewarm water in the machine at the end of the second week. If the room is in a cellar and moisture shows on the end of the second week. If the room is in a cellar and moisture shows on the end of the second week. The hog is cut as shown in the dia-gram, the shoulder No. 1. The ham (No. 2) is cut through the bone a short distance from hip to joint, and this piece of bone is left in the meat. The small piece (No. 3) is kept for boiling and is salted; so is No. 7. Nos. 4, 5 and 6 ar salted; so is No. 7. Nos. 4, 5 and 6 are roasting pieces, eaten fresh, or the ribs are taken out, and the whole, including No. 8, may be cured for bacon. Nos. 4, 5 and 6 may be salted for frying wet out of the pickle; then No. 8 makes the best of breakfast bacon. Split the head down the face and save for salting and smoking. Boil the rest of the head with the cars and feet and trimmings the hams and make head cheese.

The next process is the salting. Use an oblong box of suitable size or a pork barrel. The hams and bacon require a tray or box. Rub the hams and bacon with the following mixture well before putting it in pickle: Half a pound of saltpeter pulverized very fine divided equally—half for two hams and half for two sides. The saltpeter is to be well rubbed into the meat on the flesh sides. The meat is then laid on a bench, skin down, for 12 hours. Take 7 pounds of salt and 1½ pounds brown sugar, well mixed and heated, and rub while hot upon the two sides of the meat. The meat is then put in the tray, and the brine begins to form. Rub and baste the meat every other day, putting the bottom pieces on top, for four weeks, when the meat is hung up to dry, and then smoked.

For the hams use 4 pounds of salt, 1½ pounds of sugar, and treat in the same way. The hams should be in the pickle five weeks. This curing is important. The meat 12 not smoked until quite dry and the salt crystallized upon the surface. Use for smoking damp wheat straw, cornecbs or small brush. Smoke a little every day until completely dry and produce no heat in smoking. Some smoke for two or three months, but when perfectly dry less time is sufficient. Procure from your druggist a plint of pyrofligneous acid, the acid from an oak tree, and paint your meat with a shaving brush theroughly with this heid, and hang your meat in a cool place. The foregoing is given by an exchange as the English mode, and it is claimed that meat cured by this process will keep sound and sweet.

Tobacco In the Connecticut Valley.

The following record is reported in The New England Homestead of a grower at Poquonock, Com. He cultivates over 20 acres on three fields—two of five acres each and one of tem—and it is all shipped and ready for assortment. The two five acre fields are upland, a strong loamy soil with a gravel hardpan underneath. The larger field is alluvial soil, several feet in depth, underlaid by gravel. The yield and quantity on each field are practically equal. The crop is a few pounds over 40,000 pounds, a tout to the acre, all Havana seed. His fertilizer formula was 700 pounds of cotton hull ashes, 1,600 pounds of cotton hull ashes, 1,600 pounds of cotton hull ashes, 1,600 pounds of cotton five acre field a good dressing of horse manure was used, and on that

To spen and shut itself the gate must be hung about 4 inches out of plumb, having the lower hinge (B) project out from the post that much farther than the upper one. It shuts then just like a wagon rolling down hill. The lower hinge (B) must be 8 inches from slot to slot.

Wintering Bees Wintering Bees.

In a paper read before the North American Beekcepers' association at the twenty-fifth annual meeting President Abbot had the following to say concerning the wintering of bees. The secret of successful wintering of bees, stated in few words, is plenty of food in the right place. The right place is above the cluster. As soon as cold weather comes the bees form in a compact cluster to keep warm, and this cluster moves only one way, upward.

In the months of January and February there is generally a long spell of cold weather. During this time the cluster is moving toward the tops of the frames, consuming as it goes all of the honey in the frames immediately above it. The cold weather continuing, it finally reaches the top of the frames and can go no farther in this direction. It cannot disband and move over to other frames; neither can it move lengthwise on the frames it now occupies. What is the result! Having consumed all of the food in their honey sace, and not being able to reach any more, nor live on wood, the bees die of starvation. Had the weather turned warm for a few days, so the cluster could have broken up and the bees "taken a flight," they then would have formed in another locality on the frames or else would have then would have formed in another lo-cality on the frames or elso would have carried sufficient food into the combs where they had clustered before to carry them over another cold spell of reason-able length.

President Abbot feeds his bees granu-lated sugar made into solid cakes. The warmth and moisture arising from the cluster will keep the sugar sufficiently soft so the bees can cat it without any trouble.

Simple Method of Keeping Ice.

A farmer writing from central Connecticut to Country Gentleman says: Methods of keeping ice through the summer that would have been considered absurd a few years ago are becoming common. Farmers have discovered that a covered icehouse, with double walls, fully as expensive as any other farm building, is not indispensable. Ice may be piled upon any spot most convenient, only taking care that good drainage is afforded. A rude board fence, just tight enough to hold the packing, is built around the pile 18 inches or more from the ice. The space all around is filled with sawdast or other material, with a like covering over the top of the pile. A roof is found to be entirely unnecessary. Ice keeps well put up in this simple way, as has been proved by the Shakers at Enfield and by many farmers in different parts of the county.

There are two taxes paid, as there ought to be, one on each property in each state where the property is protected and owes its contribution towards the government it lives under.

I swap with Brown, my stock for his. Now there are four taxes due, one still on each mill and two new taxes on the two lots of stock, although there is no more property than before. How is this? When I was a boy and went to school I was taught two and two made four; now I am a man and pay taxes—a great part of which go for education—I am told by the law that one and one make four.

Is the law absurd or unjust, or was I mistaught when a boy, and am I now cheated when I pay taxes for such a burlesque on education?

Now let Massachusetts race with Maine to see which first will right this wrong, and let every shelf light this wrong, and let every shelf light the ground of the league with this end in view.

Another lilustration. Smith of Chicago has grown up with the city, and now has $1,00,000 worth of property there, stores, elevators, factories and other properties situated in Illinois, and, as is entirely proper, taxed there. All this property is represented by shares in the corporations, even his real estate being incorporated for convenience sake.

He returns to Massachusetts, which he left 40 years ago, with no capital but a common school education and an honest and vigorous character, and wishes to replant his family here and end his days in a community claiming to be equalled by few and excelled by none. What happens? The assessor goes for him armed by our tax law, with the power to collect from him another, this time a Massachusetts of tax him a second time? No, he does not; it is not property in Ilhode Island steps over the boundary into Massachusetts to tax him a second time? No, he does not; it is not property in less you join the League on propriety and instite and good sense, but it is the law—our law—Massachusetts law, and unless you join the League you are a partner in the impropriety, the injustice and the folly! And how other, as our law proposes; just think the excitement and restlessness that would ensue!

Every man would buy a mileage ticket and tear around the country from state to state, doubling his wealth as many times a day as he struck a new state; or if he were young and active he could jump forwards and back again over the boundary line between Massachusetts and Rhode Laland until he was rich enough to pay double taxtoin without a murnur!

You may say this is treating a serious subject with levity; but it is inevitable Our tax law, now upheld only by the lynorant, who are the enemy of prosperity in any state, is loaded to the nuzzie with levity, and when you strip your mind of projudice and missinformation, and your heart of oupdity, and deal with the subject bared down to the naked facts, you cannot help strikking the grotesque and the ridiculous. Life would be altogether too terrible and said if the spectacle of folly only made us wana tools we have allowed ourselves the nate then set to work with grim earning the strike of the second of the second of the second of soul sease and justice.

As the foliage of both starts early, they should be transplanted as soon as the ground is free from frost, choosing trees not over 2½ inches in diameter at two feet above the ground. Leave on all the roots possible, keeping them well protected from the sun and wind until again set out. The best success is usually obtained by cutting off all the branches and sawing off the top eight or ten feet from the ground, covering all side wounds with paint or varnish and tying over the top a cloth saturated with liquid grafting wax. Branches will be thrown out on all sides, and should any of them appear too low remove them, letting all those above a certain height remain. If too thick, the natural growth of the strongest will crowd out the weaker ones. To obtain fully developed shade trees do not plant them closer than 30 feet.

Under Article 54, on petition of James Humphrey, a committee of five was ap-pointed to accertain the probable cost of making survey of boundary and street lines of Weymouth preparatory to making a correct map of the town, said committee to report at the next annual meeting.

Article 55, was to see if the town would raise and appropriate $300 for re-setting curbstone and repairing the gutter on the easterly side of Washington street from Washington square to Richmond street and was referred to the superintendent of streets.

Under Article 56, it was voted to raise and appropriate $250 to build a retaining Union street from the residence of Edward May to the Rockland line and was referred to the committee on electric lights. Article 58 was to hear the renort of the committee chosen at the last annual meeting to purchase a stone crusher, etc., and raise or appropriate any money necessary to carry out the recommendation of said committee. A. J. Richards, chairman of the committee, reported that nothing definite had been done and, moved that $2000 which was raised for the purpose last year be re-appropriated and that $5000 more be raised by note and that we purchase a stone crusher and steam roller; he also moved that we employ a superintendent at a salary of $1200. H. W. Sears moved to amend by making the salary of $1500. Charles Hawes moved to divide the question as we needed a roller, but not a stone crusher. After a debate, the entire motion was lost and the superintendence of the streets was left in the care of the selection.

The final article was 59 and was to see it the town would indemnify Christopher P. Tower for injuries received by being throws from a scraper about one and a half years ago, and was left with the selectmen to do so, if in their judgment the care was deserving, and compensation not exceeding $200, shall be made from any available funds at their command.

—After a lingering illness Mrs. Daniel Parker died at the residence of her son-in-law, Geo. R. Bowker, on Union street, of nervous prostration, Friday morning. She would have been seventy-one in April. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Judson V. Clancy, Sunday at 2 p. m.

—At the next meeting of Court Wessagusset A. O. F. a delegate will be appointed to attend the annual convention of the order to be held in Worcester, May 21st.

—The residents of Union street would call the attention of the fire department to the need of a fire-alarm box in the vicinity of Edward May's. This is one of the most thickly settled streets in town and is at present totally unprotected, in this respect, from the danger of ravages by fire, the nearest box being on the Englise house. In the event of a conflagration many of the house-holders of this section would be obliged to go a mile before an alarm could be sounded.

for 10 months the aged writer suffered day and night beyond the power of words to express. A friend advised me to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I had no faith that any medicine would help me, but suffering as I did I thought I would try it, and purchased some, also a box of Dr. David Kennedy's Sait Rheum Cream. I used these medicines but a short time when my limb began to heal. I will further add, among the many medicines I have tried for a diseased liver and kidneys, none has ever proved so helpful to me as Favorite Remedy. By stimulating and strengthening, the euricebied organs, even the encroachments of advanced age seem to be checked by its invigorating power.

I have thoroughly tested its true worth, and I know whereof I aftirm, hoping all who read this will profit thereby, as the aged writer has, by using Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, been given very comfortable health for a person 70 years of age. Favorite Remedy is an invaluable medicine for children as well as adults.

This testimonial is given from my own experience of these invaluable medicines. The control of the process of a medicine of the process of the single sever draughts on their vitality, need Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy None are too old to be helped by it. It permanently cures dyspepsia, rheumatian, kidney, liver and urinary troubles, for the life peculiar to women it has no equal.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, Lowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it antil he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "And have since been free from all pain." He now recommends it to persons similarly afflicted.

Acute and Chronic forms of Consumption can be cured. You have been told otherwise? Yes; so have others. But facts disprove the statement. This is not an age of impressibilities. Scientists have discovered the cause of Consumption, and how it can be prevented and cured. It is a contagions discase, and it is caused by a germ. It can be cured by destroying the germ.

One day last week the many relatives of Mrs. Belinda Shaw, in accordance with a time honored custom assembled at her residence by Main street to celebrate the occasion of her eighty-sixth birthday, Many, prespand, were received, one being a bouquet of beautiful flowers from friends in Sajein. Four generations were represented at this reunion, three of her greatgrand-children being present.

—Mrs. Emily F. Torrey who has been suffering severely for some, weeks from acute glaucoma was taken to the Homeopathic hospital, Friday afternoon, where an operation was performed that, it is hoped, will enabled her to preserve the sight of both eyes.

—After a lingering illness Mrs. Daniel Parker died at the residence of her son-in-law, Geo. R. Bowker, on Union street, of nervous prostration, Friday morning. She would have been seventy-one in April. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Judson V. Ciancy, Sunday at 2 p. m.

—At the next meeting of Court Wessagusset A. O. F. a delegate will be appointed to attend the annual convention of the order to be held in Worcester, May 21st.

—The residents of Union street would call the attention of the fire department to the need of a fire-alarm box in the vicinity of Edward May's. This is one of the most thickly settled streets in town and is at present totally unprotected, in this respect, from the danger of ravages by fire, the nearest box being on the Engline house. diseased ankle bone. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and his Sait Rheum Cream healed it when all other medicines had failed, and medical authority had said the limb could never be used again.

A sore broke out on the ankle bone, and for 10 months the aged writer suffered day and night beyond the power of words to express. A friend advised me to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I had no faith that any medicine would help me but suffering as I did I thought I would try lit, and purchased some, also a box of Dr. David Kennedy's Sait Rheum Cream. I used these medicines but a short time when my limb began to heal. I will further add, among the many medicines I have tried for a diseased liver and kidneys, none has ever proved so helpful to me as Favorite Bemedy. By stimulating and strengthening the enfeebled organs, even the encroachments of advanced age seem to be checked by its injugorating power.

I have thoroughly tested its true worth, and I know whereof I affirm, hoping all who read this will profit thereby, as the aged writer has, by using Dr. David Kennedy's Pavorite Remedy, been given very confortable health for a person 70 years of age. Favorite Remedy is an invaluable medicines of the confortable medicines of the confortable medicines of the confortable medicines. This testimonal is given from my own experience of these invaluable medicines.

There is not the slightest reason why you should not feel well and strong. That great offer of Dr. Greene's is proving the best friend that weak and delicate people ever had. A letter sent to him at his office, 3t Temple Place, Boston, Mass., tellting the symptoms you are suffering from, will be immediately answered by the doctor, describing your complaint minutely, and making you understand perfectly just what alisyou. And all this costs you nothing. You don't have to leave your home and you don't have to pay any doctor's fee to leave green plant is, and you don't have to pay any doctor's fee to learn exactly what your complaint is, and how to get well and strong, from Dr. Greene, the greatest living specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor makes a specialty of curing patients through his great system of letter correspondence, and is having wonderful success. Thousands of weak, delicate men and women are writing him about their complaints, and are being permanently cured. It was he who discovered that world-renowned curative, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Write the doctor at once and see what he says about your complaint. It will probably be the means of your getting back your health.

was a time when other sides of the activity of Christ were emphasized at the expense of his teaching. Whenever that has been done, there has risen reaction, and his teachings have been lifted up as though they were the only things. When that is done, there comes usually spiritual balances. All honor to the Unitarian anism both of this country and of England, for it called the attention of the orthodox churches to Christ as teacher, and by emphasizing him as teacher and as prophet did much for the spiritual lift of England and America. But the comparative barrenness of the Unitarian organization assuch, in spite of great of his kingship more and more upon you.

"What must I do to be saved?" Come to him who has brought into life all that makes it valuable, who has scattered the pains of death and darkness and revealed the loving face of the Father and interprets to us the tender yearning voice of the Father, saying: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of me, for I am meek and lowly in heart, and ye shall find rest to your souls." Take Christ, not in this or that activity, or on this or that sativity, or take him as he is, trust in him, and he will lead you further and further into the divine life which he came to reveal and make yours.

ing spirit, and the rule of Jesus Christ as king the inspiration to the conquest of the nations and communities for him, until we have learned to trust him as our priest and elder brother.

"What must I do to be saved?" Accept Jesus Christ, trust him as your teacher and then find out what is his teaching. Trust him as prophet, and then go further and see what he proclaims. Trust him as priest and humbly submit yourselves to the merciful redemption which God alone can work for you, cleansing you from all nuright-cousness and redeeming your life from destruction and surrounding you with loving kirdness. Then accept him as king, as king over your life.

Way of salvation.

We spoke lately of the Eternal City and the power of that vision. Oh, friends, would you have power in your own life of the vision that will lift you above the disappointments of your work here, that will give you courage, faith, manbood, take Christ as king and feel that though there is rebellion that rebellion ever presses home the necessity of his kingship more and more upon you.

string between the two stakes where you want the first row to be. If the row is long, put the extra stakes on the line to keep it exactly in place. Next take a hoe. The usual way from this point on is to pick or dig a groove with one corner of the hoe, using it as in Fig. 1, and making three to six inches of trench at a stroke. This is slow work, makes a groove crooked and uneven in depth, and the bottom of the trench, where the seeds are to sprout, is liable to be more or less hard and compact.

In Fig. 1, AB is the line of direction of the trench. C is the position of the operator. At D is shown the manner of feet, and E is two feet or more. The hoe as shown is at the end of a stroke, and D E is perpendicular to A B. The hoe handle, D I, is grasped at G F (G and F being about two feet apart) and is held well away from you. The angle which D I makes with A B is such that as you look down upon the handle it covers the line D C on the ground—that is, crosses the point of your right foot and makes an angle of 45 degrees with A B. Instead of picking and digging, take a long, sweeping stroke, sharp and quick, 18 to 24 inches, according to your strength and skill. If done right, the result will be a straight, clean groove, with fine, mellow dirt in the bottom. The blade of the hoe will throw the dirt like a plow in rapid motion.

In Fig. 1, AB is the line of direction of the trench. C is the position of the operator. At D is shown the manner of using the hoe. The handle of the hoe during the work is always in line with AB. Now try it and use the hoe as in Fig. 2. Instead of using only the corner point of the hoe use, the end edge, as shown at D. Instead of standing in front of the hoe as it moves in the direction AB, stand to one side of AB, one foot at E and one at C. DE is two Fig. 2.

Then, for very fine seeds, take an inch beard about 5 feet long, 4 to 6 inches wide, and shape it as in Fig. 3. Slide this along the bottom of the groove. Next move the line and stakes the proper distance until enough grooves are made. Then drop the peas, beans, seeds, etc., and cover. In covering use the hoe in much the same way as in grooving. However, if the ground ilumpy, use care in getting only fine dir on the seeds; also be particular to covon the seeds; also be particular to cover to the proper depth.

To distribute very fine seeds in the grooves mix them thoroughly with dry sand, put all in a bottle, put a quill in the cork and distribute along the trench. The amount of seed per rod or per foot of row can be calculated and the distribution regulated accordingly. The Best Hen Mother.

The Best Hea Mother.

Hens vary in temperature. All hens are not reliable incubators. We have set hens with eggs out of the same basket, at the same time, some of which would hatch 95 per cent; others 40 or 30 per cent of the eggs. This we attribute to lack of electricity in the hens which fail to hatch well. Again, some hens are totally unfit for mothers and either don't know how to or don't care to care for their chicks, says the editor of The Farmers Review. He claims that the best mother for chicks is a good brooder. He says: "It is as good as the s brooder. He says: "It is as good as the best hen mother, and better than the best hen mother because it can take gare of so many more chicks. Brooder chicks are free from lice; are not trained through the wet grass, are not tranped on and killed in the nest and are safe in storms. But brooder chicks must have attention, and the person who has not time for this had better let the chicks run with the old hen, survive or perish."

After repeated experiments with numerous poisonous substances Professor Slingerland of Cornell station is of the opinion that wireworms will thrive in spite of the poisous. THE HOUSEHOLD.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

A Violet Room Suggests the Dainty Freshness of Spring.

It was to be a "violet" room, but there were difficulties to be overcome. It was in a city house, and its only outlook was across a narrow afley. The window was wide and had great capabilities in the matter of curtains. The room was 15 feet square and disproportionately high. The furnishing, therefore, must give the effect of space, light and air and provide sufficient beauty to so satisfy the eye that the want of outlook would be unnoticed. The Decorator and Furnisher tells that the conditions were satisfied in this way:

The wall was covered with a delicate like paper, on which were scattered bunches of violets tied with tiny gold ribbons. The apparent height of the ceiling mas lowered by a frieze of violets edged by a narrow gilt molding. The ceiling paper was of the same faint like decorated in interlacing gold rings. The carpet was of white moquette, thickly covered with small pale green leaves and thin gray shadows. A chiffonler, toilet table and washits wicker rocker was all the furniture the space allowed.

The bureau and toilet covers were of white linen embroidered with violets. The china, of cream white, was decorated in violets and gold. The whole suggestion of the room was the freshness of spring.

Speaking of liquor laws, the proprietors of Young's hotel and the Parker house which, as is well known, are the same, will be especially affected by a bill which passed the house Tuesday. For many years Landlord Whipple has had two bars is each hostelry and what is more to the point he has taken out only one license for each hotel. Hereafter, according to the provisions of the bill just passed, Mr. Whipple must pay extra fees for the additional bars or else discontinue them. This is in itself a small matter, but it is only just, so far as justice enters into our liquor legislation.

just, so far as justice enters into our liquor legislation. The advocates of woman's suffrage are in a quandary. There is a bill before the senate authorizing persons qualified to vote for members of school committees to vote at the next state election upon the question of granting municipal suffrage to women. This bill is intended to discover in advance just how many voters favor manicipal suffrage to the fair sex. It is proposed to have the male and female vote on this question kept spart so that it will be possible to know in every city and down just how many of each sex consider women entitled to receive the franchise and how many oppose. Then too by comparing the vote of the women with the census the public may know just how many of them care enough about voting to go to the polis and cast their ballot. The antisuffragists are convinced that a majority of women are opposed and they believe this will substantiate their assertion.

Last year, morning sessions began April

It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. There are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of very day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one, get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to care a cold but we will. (From Haverhill, N. II., Courier.)

"Thave had for 27 years past, a badly discased ankle bone. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and his Salt Rheum Gream healed it when all other medicines had failed, and medical authority had said the limb could never be used again.

A sore broke out on the ankle bone, and for 10 months the aged writer suffered day and night beyond the power of words to express. A friend advised me to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I had no faith that any medicine would help me, but suffering as I did I thought I would try it, and purchased some, also a box of Dr. David Kennedy's Salt Rheum Cream. I used these medicines but a short time when my limb began to heal. I will further add, among the many medicines I have tried for a diseased liver and kidneys, none has ever proved so helpful to me as Favorite Remedy. By stimulating and strengthening the enfeebled organs, even the encroachments of advanced age seem to be checked by its invigorating power.

tally wounded three men. This threw the besieged into a panic. Resistance was becoming impossible, and the Vendeans-were already raising the butts of their gons in the air, when la meuniere pashed down the ladder and cut off their retreat. "Now die like men!" she shouted. Then there commenced a perfect massacre. Attacked above and below, the Vendeans fought like imprisoned lions. When the ammunition was exhausted, they threw down the sacks of corn and flour, and, clubbing their muskets, jumped down among the Blues, who received them on the points of their bayonets. It was a horrible spectable A VENDEAN HEROINE. It was a pretty little windmill, with its big round tower capped by a weather vane, its long arms or blades which ratited in the west wind like the sails of a boat in stays, and its little round windows looking over the bills of Anjou like the telescopes of she astromersuch was the windmill for Bernardeau, and when it was working all the windmills around the neighborhood looked like white sca galls pursued by a bird of prey. It was situated on the slope of the Guigne at the end of a little crooked pathway hardly wide enough for the mill donkey, and in which one might search in vain for traces of human footprints, because it was so dark under its vault of shrubbery, so muddy and rugged that the woman of the mill always took to the vines when on her way to Ancenis on foot.

And a handsome woman, too, was this lady of the mill. She was 25 years old, with a well rounded form, a little hand, fiashing dark eyes, lips as red as wild cherries and a well turned leading the same into the village mounted upon the donkey that carried her bags of flour, all the young fellows came out to admire her fine floure and the beautiful limbs which appeared below her short skirts.

Even the donkey himself seemed

"Where is la meun re?" shouted the

"Where is la meun' re?" shouted the hussars.

"Here she is, citizens," said she as she let herself slip along the shaft of the mill. "I have given to you no quarter, and I don't want any mercy from fellows like you!"

"All right," said the officer. "We'll settle your account in short order. Place yourself against that wall."

There was something singularly graceful and proud in her bearing and a glance of withering contempt in her eye as she advanced toward the wall. Her splendid black hair was now floating in disorder upon her shoulders. She gathered it modestly around her breast, so as to hido her torn corsets. Then she stood against the wall.

"Now fire and be d——d1" said she. This piece of feminine boldness made the officer hesitate. "How old are you?" he asked.

"Do you want to live?"

"No, I'd rather die than receive mercy from you."

"Come now, simply shout 'Long live the republic' and I'll let you go free."

"Long live the king!" she cried in a vibrating voice.

A moment afterward there was the rolling sound of a voiley. That was the last of the meuniero of Bernardeau.

"She was a plucky pleee of flesh, all the same," said the soldiers.

Westermaun's hussars lost in that attack 22 men and 8 wounded.

Since then the mill has remained abandoned as if it were cursed. Open to all the winds of heaven, without a roof, without arms, it stands. Occasionally a tramp passing through the country takes shelter there and sleeps with the swallows and the bats. Following its well known habit, the ivy, which seems to be in love with ruins, gradually intwined itself around it, and from a distance the uncrowned tower has the aspect of a ruined fortress.

How many times have I wandered through that section of the country seeking for details of the dramatic scene which I have endeavored to picture, but la menuier of Bernardeau had so bad a reputation in that country that her heroic death was not sufficient to cover over, at least in the minds of the peasantry, the faults which she had or which were attributed to her.—Figaro.

Writing With Both Hands. limbs which appeared below her short skirts.

Even the donkey himself seemed proud of his mistress. He traveled along at an easy gait, tossing his head and cocking his ears, as if to say to everybody: "Here she is. You have only to look at her. This is la Meuniere of Bernardeau. There isn't another woman like her in all the country!" And that was the truth. But she was the subject of a great deal of gossip. How the tongues did wag on her account! It was said that since the death of her husband, a poor goose of a fellow who had taken her without a cent from a farm and left her all his property, she frequently tossed her cap over the blades of her windmill. Whether this was true or not, the blades certainly never told, but one thing is certain, and that is that she did hang up her cap there publicly on one occasion, and it cost her ber life. Here is her story.

that she did hang up her cap there pub-licly on one occasion, and it cost her her life. Here is her story:

The first thing the Vendeans did when they rose in revolt against the re-public was to make use of the wind-mills. Nothing could be better suited for signaling or more troublesome for the enemy. Where the Blues could only see white wings turning round in a melancholy fashion, the Chouans pos-sessed a perfect telegraphic system, which told them of the movements of the republican army.

Writing With Both Hands.

A carlous and so far as we are aware hitherto unpublished fact about the expremier is narrated by Mr. Lancelot Strong in The Woman at Home. In the course of a vivid description of Mr. Gladstone's manner of conducting his correspondence in the house he says, "He would take the blotter and begin to write, often with an inditing pen in one hand and a corrective pencil in the other." We are reminded of a recently published satirical cartoon in which Mascagni is represented as busily composing operas with both hands and both feet. Writing With Both Hands. The windmill of Bernardeau was one of the principal vedettes on the Loire. Three days before the attack upon Nantes, Cathelineau came to the mill of Bernardeau and asked for shelter. It was the 22d of June, 1793. Bonchamp was at Ancenis since the 17th awaiting the main body of the army. The weather was magnificent, and the Vendeaus camped in the open air. When Cathelineau at the end of a little road found himself face to face with the beautiful woman of the mill, he asked her if she was a royalist. woman of the mill, he asked her if she was a royalist.

"One might easily become a royalist to serve under so handsome an officer as you," said she.

"Good enough! Then let me have shelter here tonight."

The meuniere cheerfully welcomed him, and Cathelineau slept that night in the mill. The next morning when he was leaving she sent to him from the threshold of the mill a perfect volley of kisses, after which she went up to the highest little whinds in the nill and waved her little white handkerchief.

Eight days afterward Cathelineau, mortally wounded, was coming from Ancensis in a carriage, and as he passed by the mill he cast a long and sad look at it. According to the order, its blades were arranged so as to announce the approach of the soldiers of Canelaux.

From the 17th of October to the 17th of December, during the 60 days which separated the two retreats of the Vendean army on the Loire, the mill of Bernardean continued its signals of intelligence with these of La Vendee. But the "Good shot!" she said. "There is one less now."

Westermann ordered a company of hussars to surround the old mill. Ho was in too great a hurry to finish with La Rochgacquelin to bother himself with windmills. The hussars had hardly arrived at the mill before his flying artillery began to cannonade the few rafts of the Chonans, who were endeavoring to cross the Loire. The officer whe was in command of the company summoned the occupants of the mill to surreader.

The meuniere opened a little window, fastened her lace cap on the point of one of the blades and shouted out, "Come and get it, you ill shaped pupy?"

A volley from the hussars was the only answer to those insolent words. The window panes were broken to fragments. The Vendeens inside returned the fire and dropped five of the horsemen. The company then dismounted and rushed against the door of the mill, which they broke with the butts of their guns.

Molly and the Basket.
Said Molly: "I've made up my mind,
And when my nice eggs I have sold I'll buy our wee Jacky some socks, some To wear when he cries with the cold. Said the basket: "I'm really inclined To tip the eggs on to the ground. She carries me such a queer way, queer My head and my handle go round; My head and my handle go round."

and rushed against the door of the mill, which they broke with the butts of their gans.

"Surrender, you scoundrels, or in a few moments you'll all be dead!" shouted the officer.

"You are the scoundrels!" yelled the woman of the mill. "Let me see if you are able to get my cap."

The hussars entered the lower story, but the ladder was removed by the Yendeens, who now fired upon them from the story above and made terrible ravages in their ranks.

The woman of the mill busied herself with the work of loading the guns, a task which she performed with astonishing rapidity. The Chouans, sheltered behind the flour sacks, cared little for the fire of the Blues.

"Take good sim!" cried la meuniere. "Don't let a single one escape."

The officer, seeing his men fall all around him, ordered them to come out and take the place by storm, scaling the arms of the mill. It was a magnificent assault. Twenty hussars clambered up the blades. With their carbines thrown across their backs they elambered up like sailors to the story above, and from there fell either killed or wounded under the balls or the bayonet thrusts of the Yendeans. One brigatier managed to get up to the roof by making a rampart of the bodies of his contrades, who held os to the arms like drowning men to planks.

"We are all right, my friends!" cried newspaper and press associations re-ceived only 28,000,000 words by tele-graph, while last year they received by wire 1,800,000,000 words.

The Hair Must Be Glossy and Arra
Add Width to the Head.

planist accompanies a song, and with fringes, puffs, coils and waved tresses this is brought to pass.

The fashionable fringe must be close to the head in front. Boshy fringes are out of date. Some women are able to produce the desired effect by two or three curls of hair on pins, while others fall back on a fringe which is waved at the back and mingles with the knot.

Those who like a center parting can have either a waved bandeau or a divided fringe.

It is important to acquire the right way of dressing all these arrangements, especially when there are hairdressers' accessories designed to supplement

Dame Nature's scanty provision. They are always much more natural and becoming when they are carried out and adapted to the face by the wearers themselves, though a elever maid can, adapted to the face by the weares themselves, though a clever maid can, of course, introduce improving touches; but, as a whole, the women look best who arrange their own front hair.

A new fringe fresh from the hair-dresser is apt to assume a different appearance when it has been-dressed by the wearer if she has not mastered the art of doing it well. It is a supple touch of the fingers, the art of keeping the addition well down to the head and lightening the curls as much as possible that rest on the forehead.

All the fringes, frontlets and scalpettes are made on invisible and hair lace foundations, and as a sine qua non they must match the natural hair exactly. And this means that they need frequent renewal, for hair that does not grow on the head, not being nourished by the natural moisters, becomes lighter.

It is the fashion for hair to be much more glossy than it used to be, and for this purpose various preparations are used on the natural hair and on the artificial tresses. Those who like to turn the front back from the face in waved lines, with just a few soft curls on the forehead, must have what is called a "turnover toupee," while those who wish the hair to be waved and start from a center above the forehead must have a "wavedet."

In the cut showing new fringes and chignons No. 1 represents a pompadour coffure, No. 2 a pretty arrangement of fringe puffs and a handsome knot, while No. 3 is an 1840 coffure of bandeaux waved and parted in front, with a French knot chignon. This latter is not only new, but becoming, which unfortunately is not the case with all novellies, and gives that width to the head which seems now to be so much sought after.

The new taffetas are prettier than ever, with their dainty stripes, empire figures and shadowy chine figures on called pointelle taffeta and striped with little prints of color on one edge of each stripe. A touch of black is given to the figured taffetas by tiny dots in hairline stripes. These silks are very effective made up in simple dresses, with plain skirts and full round waists trimmed in the form of a square yoke, with a jetted band, from which strands of jet fall to the jetted belt in front and a jet band for the collar. The sleeves, if the gown is for a young woman, may be large puffs, elbow length.

waist and neck. The bows are lined with one of the shades in the pattern, and the bodice is further ornamented with white feathers and paste buckles.

Black and White.

Black and white continue to be much in fashion combined. For example, a black satin trocaded evening gown has a vandyked hem, with a putting of white satin beneath, matching a white satin panel embroidered with iridescent beads and draped with black lace. This is made with panniers, and the bodies has a stomacher of black satin and braces of white satin embroidered with the beads. The elbow sleeves have revers of white satin, showing black undersleeves and ruffles.

How the Curves of Waves Are Regulated How the Curres of Waves Are Regulated by the Coast.

When waves advance toward the kneether circumstances change, in general gradually, from those of oscillatory waves to those of waves of transition, as the depth of the water becomes less and less considerable in comparison with the length of the wave, and it is found by experiment that they break, as it is called, when the depth of the wave is about equal to the height of the creat above the undisturbed level.

How to Estimate the Value of a Pearl.

The beauty and value of pearls depend on their color, form, texture (skin), transparency (water) and luster. A pearl to be perfect must possess the following qualifications: It must be perfectly round or drop shaped, have a perfectly pure white color, must be slightly transparent, free from specks, spots or blemishes and must possess the peculiar luster characteristic of the gem. A perfect pearl of one grain weight is worth from 40 to 56 cents, while one of 80 grains is worth from $400 to $500. Round pearls above this weight are so rare that they command exceptional prices, depending on the circumstances of the sale to bring almost any figure. In India and China the yellew pearls are preferred.

Some Good And Necessary Advice at This Season.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well known druggist of Des Moines, fows, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I only made three applications of it," he says, "And have since been free from all pain." He now recommends it to persons similarly afflicted.

that little or nothing and three horses, one quite tailable, and all the other contents of the library building, and from thence to South Weymouth to get an idea of the territory lying between the villages and their relative importance. Returning to East Weymouth, via. Pleasant street, the party drove to Masonic building, where a lauch by Hendric Bros. of Boston was in waiting. The tables had been decorated with flowers by Mrs. G. W. Baker and were quite attractive. The menu was a good one and was highly enjoyed after the three hours of cold ride.

The committee took the 3.30 train for Boston, remarking as they left that they had seen no town in the state with so many neat and comfortable homes. Whether this opinion will be an incentive for them to keep the town together or separate it, remains to be seen.

Town Division at the State House. Not as many Weymouth menas gainered at the State house at the two hearings on town division, yet a good number of representative people of bothsides were thereresterday to hear the argiment of counsel for, and against the proposed cheme.

Messrs. Cook and Worthen appeared for the remonstrants and Mr. Cook in an address of an hour set forth the reasons why the proposed division should not made the argument was clear and logical and was quite satisfactory to his side of the question.

is a perfect food for invalids. It is also a medicine. It contains Cone and Guaiacol. These make appetite. Appetite creates a desire for food. Cod Liver Oil—the basis of Ozomulsion—supplies it. It is the best nutrient known. By nutrient, is meant anything that promotes growth and repairs waste. Ozomulsion does this. That's why invalids like it. They like it also because it is easy to take, easy to digest, easy to assimilate. This makes it a perfect food. Then it does not nauseate like ordinary Cod Liver Oil. Does not cause cructations, that is, belching of wind from the stomach. It does nourish, refresh strengthen and fortify. That's another reason wby it's an ideal food for sick people. But above and beyond all it is best, not because it contains Ozone and Gualacol. That's the point. That's why PHYSICANS PHESCHIEE IT —It is gratifying to learn that the fire damage on the store of Z. L. Bicknell has been adjusted and the store will be rebuilted at once, Charles Simmons having already begun operations. Pending her robuilting John P. Lovell and Henry Loud have kindly tendered Mr. Bicknell the use of the store occupied by Mr. Loud and the business will go on with an illusin interruption as is possible under the circumstances.

—The Ladies' Cemetry Circle met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Charles II. Burrell and transacted some of the most important business in its history. The president, Mrs. B. S. Lovell was in the chair and the circle voided to appropriate from its treasury a sum sufficient to complete the road leading from Cedar street to its full width, forty feet, plant a row of trees on either side and erect a gate at the cemetery entrance. Plans were submitted for the gate and the circle will be a most elaborate, affair and the entire improvements will cost about $800 and will be completed before Decoration Day.

Gallant of Lovells Corner is doing the work.

The forty-sixth annual May party will be held Wednesday evening, May 1, in Fogg's Opera House, under the auspices of the Ladies' Social circle of the Universalist church. The management intend to have this the best affair that has yet been enjoyed by those who attend these parties. They have secured the services of Knowlton & Allen's singing orchestra of Natick.

—The engagement is announced of Miss Bertha F. Burrell to Samuel S. French of Sandy Point, Me.

—Chicken pox has been rather prevalent. One little three-year-old who has been smitted was condoled with by his elder sister, who pityingly said to him, "Poor little deary, he's got itchy things on his hands and on his face and in his ears, hasn't he? And the tot sighed, "Es, and in my s'irt!"

DOUBLE TAXATION

Attracting the Attention of All Bay State Citizens.

A QUESTION OF VAST IMPORTANCE.

River News March 11, 1895-Able Pre sentation of the Reasons For Tax Re-form - Failacles of the Double Tax

Double taxation is attracting the attention of business men all over the state. Now that the debate is Jarliy opened, the arguments pro and con having been ably presented by gentlemen who are eminently qualified to do so, interest in the question should be kept active until the system of taxation in Massachusestis is made to accord with principles that are recognized as sound by the best business intelligence of our prominent merchants and manufacturers and by the ablest writers on the subject of taxation. It is

A Question of Vast Importance to this commonwealth, which is today a great financial center, and is every year edding to that store of capital which enables her to accomplish so much for the well being of her own inhabitants, and as the same time to pour out a stream of wealth to stimulate enterprise in other portions of our common country. The real question at issue in this controversy is, shall our tax laws follow these foreign investments and compel the owners of them here to contribute to the amount raised by taxation in proportion to these is, shall our tax laws into a compel the owners of them here to contribute to the amount raised by taxation in proportion to their holdings?

The double taxationist looks at investments abroad as so much taken from the resources of the state, which, if invested here, would enhance our prosperity and increase our wealth, and therefore thinks it advisable to discourage the outflow of capital by subjecting it to jaxation, when it takes the form of shares in foreign corporations. This would probably produce the intended effect if the evidences of ownership in these corporations could be traced by the tax assessor to the hands of the owner. This is rarely the case, however, Not One Share In Ten, and it may be doubted if one share in 20 and it may be doubted if one share in 20 and it may be doubted if one share in 20 and it may be doubted if one share in 20 and it may be doubted if one share in 20 and it may be doubted if one share in 20 and it may be doubted if one share in 20 and it may be doubted if one share in 20 and it may be doubted if one share in 20 and it may be doubted if one share in 20 and it may be doubted in the owner.

wars the standard for extra earliess. It is the Shadow, Not the Substance, of property. It may be lost or destroyed, yet the property remains. If this were not the case; if we could water realty and give it a double value by simply forming corporations and issuing shares of stock to the amounts of its value as real estate, all our farmers would shortly be living in clover.

The absurdity of this idea is so apparent to the double taxationist that he does not insist on taxing shares in domestic corporations, as he is logically bound to de See, by a single illustration, to what inconsistency out tax law is reduced by its effort to create property by legal fiction. There is in Fall River a corporation or ganized under the law of New Jersey. All of its property, real and personal, including lies stock in process, manufactured and raw material, is fully taxed, contributing more, probably, to the amount raised by taxation than any other corporation in the city, in proportion to its captial. Yet, under the law, every share of stock in this foreign corporation that is held by residents of this state, is also subject to taxation. Could there be a better proof of the impolicy and injustice of the law which tax reformers regard as so infinical to the best interests of the commonwealth?

Again, it is contended that the undersimincial to the best interests of the commonwealth?

Again, it is contended that the underlying principle of taxation is that every person should contribute to the public charges in proportion to his abilities, and that the shareholder in foreign corporations would escape his just burden of taxation if his shares were exempt from assessment. But how can he be said to have greater ability to bear a tax than the owner of a like amount of stoc.. in a Massachusetts corporation, assuming the dividends paid on the respective shares to be of the same amount?

It seems useless, almost, to argue with the double taxationist. He appears impervious to reason. Prove to him that the property he is striving to tax defies the efforts of assessors to reach more than small fraction of it for the purpose of taxation, and he replies by demanding a more stringent doomage law. Demonstate the inconsistency, the impolicy, The Injustice of a Double Tax, and he points to the amount its collection adds to the revenue, and whiningly remarks that taxes removed from one class of property must be added to anniher of the feet that thougher.

of property must be another to another class to which he refers has for years enjoyed immunity from traxation to the extent that the double tax has contributed to the public charges, and that its abolition simply replaces the burden where it rightfully belongs. Show him that sate after state has abandoned the policy of taxing shares in foreign corporations, as lacking in comity to their neighbors and as an injustice to their own citizens, and he replies by a rhetorical flourish on the sanction which the lapse of time has given to the policy—a pice that has always been taged in favor of the retention of aged, but not venerable, abuses in government and legislation. He will insist, also, that the adoption of the more liberal policy would encourage capital to leave Massa-shusetts. The decline in the farm prices of horses is general throughout the country. The exceptions are to be found in the mountain and Pacific states and Massachusetts. The range of horses is from $16.18 per head in Utah to $74.13 in Massachusetts. Increased from $31.77 in 1894 to $31.97 for the year.

Could she have ever reached the proud position she now occupies in the financial world had she pursued the narrow, illiberal policy of taxing investments that were

A Source of Bitches to Her People?

Every ship that salls into or out of her ports represents a contribution to her coffers. Even double taxationists have a glimmerling consciousness of the impolicy of checking foreign ventures, for they do not object to the law exempting from taxation vessels engaged in foreign commerce. Massachusetts capitalists are not less shrewd and eagacious than the merchants of England. If they have sent their millions to build up flourishing cities in the west and south; if they enabled Chicago to rise with renewed strength and greater beauty from her asnes, they have not impoverished, but rather enriched their own state, and given it an enviable name throughout the land as the patron of great enterprises which have identified her with some of the proudest achievements in industrial enterprise and inland transportation.

Who is there that would be willing to take from her brow a single wreath that now adorns it for the miserable satisfaction of confining, if possible, the business operations of her sons to that limited area where the tax gatherer can be sure of his lien?

Early Sweet Corn.

In order to be sure of planting at the right time it is a good plan to plant on three or four different dates, as some of the later planted rows of the same variety may go ahead of those planted first. It is an excellent plan to spront the seed previous to planting. A Massachusetts farmer tells in The New England Homestad that a good way to do this is to put the the grain into a pan and pour warm water over it. After 15 or 20 minutes pour off the water and cover the corn with a cloth of several thicknesses wet in hot water. It is well to have a thick cloth in the bottom of the pan also to absorb any superfluous moisture. The panishoul be set in a warm place for about 36 hours, or until the sprouts begin to show. The upper cloth will need rediping in warm water occasionally.

The sprouting of the corn not only gives it an earlier start, but prevents the rotting of the seed in case a cold, wet spell follows the planting. Plantings should be continued until all danger of frost is past. There is naturally a good deal of difference of opinion in the matter of variety. With the farmer quoted, the Cory has been for several years the standard for extra earliness.

matter quietly. Now, suppose I propose for you?"
"No," said Jack. "She'd think I was afraid to ask her myself and refuse me on the spot. No. I won't write, and I won't do it by proxy. Isn't there some other way? Why don't you suggest something, you great, long idiot, instead of sitting there-and grinning all ingist?"
Now, I wasn't grinning, and I had been suggesting things all the time, so naturally I felt much hurt. I therefore curled up and was silent.
For some time Jack smoked savagely without speaking a word. After about 20 minutes of this he laid down his pipe and began in a very apologetic tome:

nd began in a very apologetic ton "I say."
"Well?"
"Can't you think of any other way of proposing?"

"Wear a flower which means 'I love you.' A paney or crocus or something. Then, if she wants you, she'll wear one meaning, 'Your sentiments are recipro-cated.'" cated. "

"Don't think much of that way," said Jack. "Know any other?"
Now, I have never been in love in my life, and never intend to be, and so I found it rather hard to give Jack advice. However, I racked my brains and at length evolved this startling method: "Propose to her through her father!" 'Oh, you hopeless mass of imbeelity!" yelled Jack, bouncing up and grabbing his hat. "How am I to do that when she hasn't got a father?"
And he flung himself out of the room in a towering passion and did not come near me again for quite a period. Well, how was I to know that the wretched girl hadn't a father? Was I expected to keep a register of all the births, deaths, marriages and divorces which occurred in those families which contained girls. I had not quite come down to earning my living by being a leve registrar.
Well, you will no doubt want to hear how Jack really did propose. In telling you I must give you plainly to understand that I am only repeating what Jack told me. I was not an eyewitness of the heart rending scene. It was like this:
I was sitting one afternoon trying to

of the heart rending scene. It was like this:

I was sitting one afternoon trying to find instances of men marrying their mothers-in-law (Inever came across one who did yet), under an encyclopedia heading called "Matrimonial Madness, Types of," when Jack suddenly burst into the room with his face all aglow with delight.

"I've done it!" he shouted.

I shut up the encyclopedia with a bang. No need to go on looking for types of matrimonial madness when I had one in front of me, I thought.

"How?" I asked coldly. "How did you do it?"

My manner did not damp him in the least.

"I did it—this very afternoon, and I'll tell you all about it."

He sat down close to me, breathing very hard, and commenced:

"You must know that Clesy told me last night that she was going down to Devonshire today to stay with her aunt. You can bet I felt cut up. Well, after some hesitation, I asked her whether she would allow me to see her off at Paddington? She demurred a little, and then said, 'Yes.' You can't think what a pretty way she has of saying 'Yes.' Well—don't be impatient, I'm coming to it—you may feel pretty sure that I was at Paddington an hour before she drove up. And when she did arrive you can imagine how I looked after her, and got her ticket, and saw that her boxes were labeled, and bought her all the fillustrated papers and a luncheon basket, and told the guard to keep an eye on her, and all that sort of thing.

"She was so awfally nice that I almost went crazy when I thought of her being away for a month, all among a lot of other beggars. Well, she took her seat, and I tipped the guard to lock the door and not let any one else in. I wanted to have that last five minutes all to myself, you see?

"So she made herself comfortable and told me I looked awfally red, and judging by my feelings I should think I looked quite purple. Well—don't be in a hurry—the guard whistled and called, 'Stand away, please!' and the train began to move slowly out of the station. Just to say 'Goodby' I got on the footboard and put my hand in at the window. I had said 'Goodby' I got on the footboard and put my hand in at the window. I had said 'Goodby' I got on the footboard and she looked so pretty and all that that I suddenly screwed up my courage and said:

"'Clesy, will you?'

"The guard called out, 'Stand away, please, there!' but I kept on the foot board, and Clesy said, 'Oh, get off, please. You'll be hurt.

"The train was going faster by this time, but I stuck there and yelled out: 'Will you? Will you?'

"She looked awfully scared—all the porters and guards and passengers were shouting at me by this time—and said: 'Will you? Will I what?'

"We were almost at the end of the platform now, but I still held on, and said: 'Will you? Will you? You know what I mean.'

"She blushed awfully and said: 'Pray' HOW JACK PROPOSED

"Will you? You know, will you?'

"What?"

"Marry me?'

"There were about 150 porters rushing up the platform to pull me off, but I still hung on and waited for her answer. She looked at me most imploring ly and said:

"Do get off, dear Jack, do!"

"And she answered; 'Yes.'

"I shouted out: 'Will you? Say!'

"And she answered; 'Yes.'

"I jumped off just as we got outside the station, fell down, and two porters snatched me out of harm's way. I gave them a sovereign each and took a cab here to tell you about it."

This was being legal with a vengeance. Here was my dear chum—six merriest fellow in London—deeply in growled Jack hoarsely, and for the moment I believe he was thoroughly in earnest.

I thought I'd try the cynical, man of the world method and seed him out of his foolishness, so I said:

"Fancy being knocked over in this way by a puling girl, a weak, silly creature, who isn't even a new woman!"

Jack was all on fire in a moment.

"She's not a weak, puling, silly creature, and she is a new woman," he shouted, forgetting for the nonce that it is not altogether a desirable thing to be in love with that feminine novelty.

"So now!"

(Parenthetically I may ask, Why is it that people always end up defiances of this kind with those mystic words, "So now." Why is it?

"Jack." I said, "write to her."

"Splendid ideal" said Jack, who had been thinking of different ways of proposing for six months and now hailed that of doing it by post as an entirely one and original idea. "Here goes, and thanks swfally, old chap, for giving me the tip."

Scizing quite a quire of notepaper Jack scribbled and tore up about a dozen proposals in writing. Then he turnor round, almost crying, and said that he couldn't do it that way, and he wouldn't, and he'd hang himself, and perhaps then she'd be sorry, and—and—and—why was be born?

of the children are dressed similarly to the children of European cities. In the wilds, the country, the hidden places of Mexico, the children wear garbs that are Indian, garbs that are Spanish and garbs that are quaint and ingenious combinations of the two. Every Mexican child is an artist. The wee brown fingers of Mexican babies mold the ruddy Mexican mud into ba-bies browner than themselves, and Mexican children of most tender years terials into statuettes and tiny figures, which they sell in the Mexican market places.

The children of Mexico have not overmany pets, but they all have familiar acquaintance with one animal, the mule. Almost the poorest Mexican family has its mule. Save among the rich, the largest family rarely has but one such steed. Mexican families are not, as a rule, small, and the family mule is perpetually called upon to carry burdens that are enough to sour the disposition of a sweeter tempered animal. White mules with black faces, black mules with white faces, and mules of every mulish color or combination of colors are always on the move in Mexico. You will see them in the city streets, and they will save you from feeling lonely when you tramp the country byways. The destination of a Mexican mule is, 10 to 1, church, the market or home. The eldest boy leads the mule. The father pushes the mule discreetly. The mother, all the little indiden and no mean part of the family goods and chattels ride the mule. His muleship, even under such circum stances, tankes long journeys day after day, but he does not do it enthusiastically.

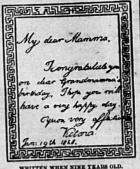

and the does not do it entinesiastically.

Music is an instinct with the children of Mexico. It isn't the blare of the new day. It's the glad matins of the birds that waken the Mexican mites. If those Mexican babies be half well born and half well housed, they pay the birds for songs with songs. This is the custom: When day first breaks into the bedrooms of a Mexican house—and she breaks in very early, partly because Mexico is where Mexico is, and partly because the low houses have an abundance of windows—when, for these two reasons, the sun does make so early an entrance, the head of the house gallantly welcomes it by leaping out of bed. If he is very old or very feeble, he at least manages to lift himself from his pillow, and he begins to sing a song, a hymn of morning praise. If a priest be staying in the house, then that priest starts the vocal symphony, and the father, mother and all the people of the homestead down to the least of the servants take it up and join in the song of simple welcome to the morning, but sweetest of all the voices heard is that of the Mexican baby.

join in the song of simple welcome to the morning, but sweetest of all the voices heard is that of the Mexican baby. The poorer children of the cities of Mexico spend a considerable part of their days in the market places—in the bazaars. They peddle the little clay fig-ures and wax creatures that their deft fingers have shaped and the sunshine in which they love to sit has baked; they hawk flowers and barter magnificent fruits for copper coins; they rush after you and catch you by the skirt and hurl you back to their parents' booths. As a rule, they know one English sentence, "Give me a penny."

A Letter by Queen Victoria.

It was picked up in one of the apartments of Kensington palace by Ann Jones, a servant in the establishment of the Duchess of Kent, the queen's mother. It was given by Ann Jones to her father, who in turn gave it to his mas-TANK STATES hands of another English gentleman, its present owner.

The queen, who is now nearly 76 years old, was only 9 years old when this letter was written. Her grandmother was 71. It is doubtful if all the young folks who read this column could write as well at 9 years of age. You will notice there is one mistake in spelling—besides "affectionate," which is just a little shaky—the little princess having come to grief over "your," and that, too, after she had safely got over "congratulate."
